MEN WHO WILL SERVE IN 1904.

E. E. Gregory left Friday for Central City Ky., to accept the position of cashier of the Central City Deposit Bank. Mr. Gregory had been cashier of the Bank of Cloverport since it began business the first of last year, and with his new position comes an increase in salary. He came to this city from Owensboro and made many friends, while popular in both social and business circles. He won the esteem and confidence of his employers, and, in recognition of his efficiency, one of the Owensboro stockholders of the bank promoted him to his new position.

At a meeting on Monday of the directors of the Bank of Cloverport, who are the same as they were in 1903, an election for three of the officers for 1904 was held. Frank P. Payne was elected president; Marion Weatherholt, Cashier; and Dr. A. A. Simons, assistant cashier. The election of vice-president was postponed for several days. Mr. Weatherholt was formerly president and Dr. Simons vice-president.

The Cloverport Real Estate & Improvement company has elected officers for the first six months of 1904 as follows: J. A. Barry, president; J. C. Nolte, Vice-president and M. Weatherholt, Secretary and Treasurer. These three gentlemen, L. T. Reid and Dr. A. A. Simons are the new directors of the company.

Although the company has been doing business only a few months it has declared a dividend of five per cent, which is considered a good showing.

A Good Bookkeeper.

A very important factor in every business, whether large or small, is a good bookkeeper. In this day and time, when competition is keen and sharp and profits close it takes fine management and close attention to detail to run a business successfully. Nothing is more important than the keeping of the accounts. It is not only satisfaction to the proprietor, but it is a boon to the customers to have one's accounts correctly kept and every item so entered that it is no trouble to see at a glance just what is was, the price, and who purchased it. This is the kind of bookkeeper Morris Jolly is and the kind of books he keeps for the well-known firm of Jolly, Gardner & Co. of Irvington. His books are neatly, accurate and well-kept and show at a glance just what the firm is doing and reflect great credit on Mr. Jolly's ability as an accountant.

The Bandy House, under its new management, ought to command a good share of the trade of that town.

The Spirit of Winter

The Spirit of Winter is with us, making its presence known in many different ways—some by chery sunshines and glistening snows, and sometimes by driving winds and blinding storms. To many people it seems to take a delight in making bad things worse, for rheumatism twists harder, twinges sharper, coughs become more annoying, and the many symptoms of scrofula are developed and aggravated. There is not much poetry in this, but there is truth, and it is a wonder that more people don't get rid of these ailments. The medicine that cures them—Hod's Sarsaparilla—is easily obtained and there is abundant proof that its cures are radical and permanent.

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 13, 1904.

The Hon. John Young Brown, a former Governor of the State and one of Kentucky's most prominent citizens, died at Henderson Monday morning at 9 o'clock, of dropsical affection, after an illness of two months. The funeral will be held at Henderson this afternoon. Gov. Brown was born at Elizabethtown in 1834.

Gen. John B. Gordon, commander of the United Confederate Veterans, died at his plantation near Miami, Fla.,
Saturday night at 10:05 o'clock.
The immediate cause of death was uræmic poison, following a chill.
The body of the illustrious soldier now lies in state at Atlanta, while grief-stricken Georgia and the whole South bears in reverence over the great general's tier. His death caused widespread regret in Kentucky, where he had found his way into the hearts of the people. Lieut. Gen. Stephen D. Lee succeeds Gen. Gordon as commander-in-chief of the United Confederate Veterans' association.

Gov. Beckham, in his message to the General Assembly, last week urged that the school bill be passed; that the insane asylum be placed under the control of a commission; that a Capitol bill be passed; that legislation be enacted to save the State expanse from the support of pauper idiots; that laws be made to prevent needless expenditures for criminal prosecution;
that appropriations be made for the charitable, educational and penal institutions which stand in need of aid;
and that an appropriation be made to defray the expenses of Kentucky's exhibit at the St. Louis Exposition.

The first objection to West Point and its vicinity as a maneuver site comes from West Point itself. While the officials of the Government have apparently listened with a willing ear to the plans of the project, a remonstrance from some of the farmers has been received by Congressman Dave W. Smith. It came from a religious faction, which told Mr. Smith that it did not think the presence of the soldiers desirable or advisable.

"I shall find out what the people of my district think of the soldiers coming to West Point," said Congressman Smith to a reporter in Louisville last week while en route to Washington,
"and shall act accordingly. Just what my position shall be I shall not decide until I have determined what that sentiment is."

Our representative, the Hon. D. C.
McCrann, has been treated very nicely by the Speaker of the House in the make up of the committees. He is make chairman of the Committee on Agriculture, one of the most important committees in the House and for which he is well equipped. The Frankfort correspondent of the Courier-Journal says of him: "He is well suited for this or any other good committee that requires business ability and a thorough understanding of agricultural interests."

Besides being chairman of the Committee on Agriculture, he is a member of the following important committees:

Cities of the Fourth, Fifth and Sixth Classes.
Banks and Banking.
A. and M. College.
Appellate Redistricting.

The Hon. A. J. Thompson, of Mach, comes in for his share of the honors. He is chairman of Public Warehouses and Granaries, and a member of the following committees:
Sluicing Fund.
Education No. 1.
Claims.
County and City Courts.

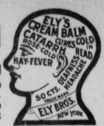

In the Senate the Hon. Gas W.
Richardson is in close touch with the speaker and is well taken care of. He is chairman of the Committee on Corporations and a member of the following important committees:
Library and Public Buildings.
Railroads.
Reapportioning Legislative Districts.
Agriculture and Manufacture.
Riots.
Telegraph, Telephones, Interurban
Lines.

Nasal CATARRH

In all its stages.

Ely's Cream Balm

chances, soothes and heals the diseased membrane.
It cures catarrh and drives away a cold in the head quickly.
Cream Balm is placed into the nostrils, spreads over the membrane and is absorbed. Relief is immediate and a cure follows. It is not drying—does not produce sneezing. Large size, 50 cents at Druggists or by mail; Trial Size, 10 cents.
E. J. BROOKS, 26 Warren Street, New York

The fact that poultry of all kinds is bringing excellent prices this winter suggests that there is one way for the farmers to make easy money which few of them in this county are taking advantage. We say easy money, in comparison to the present way in which the major part of the farmers of the county make their ready money. They depend almost solely upon their tobacco and are disappointed in weight, quality, price, or the season nearly every year. This year it is light weight, low prices and late season. Instead of being well fixed for the winter they are in the blues and in debt. If they would give their time and money to raising poultry
they would enjoy much better results.
The market prices for poultry, of course, are not always good as they are this winter, but they are more uniform and satisfactory year after year than the prices paid for tobacco.

The great American trouble is indigestion, largely a result of the great American habit of hurry.
Hastily swallowed meals are probably the greatest cause of indigestion.

The stomach is given more than its share of work and is weakened. The first thing to do in correcting the trouble is to stop fast eating. The next thing is to take a good digestive tonic to strengthen the digestion and enrich the impoverished blood.

Such a tonic is Walther's Peptonized
Port, a simple combination of pure pepsin and good port wine to be had at all druggists.

Small size 50 cents, large size $1.00.

Over-Work Weakens
Your Kidneys.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

All the blood in your body passes through your kidneys once every three minutes.

The kidneys are your blood purifiers. They filter out the waste or impurities in the blood. If they are sick or out of order, they fail to do their work.

Pains, aches and rheumatism come from excess of uric acid in the blood, due to neglected kidney trouble.

Kidney trouble causes quick or uneasy heart beats, and makes one feel as though they had heart trouble. Because the heart is over-worked in pumping thick, kidney-poisoned blood through veins and arteries.

It used to be considered that only urinary troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all constitutional diseases have their beginning in kidney trouble.

If you are sick you can make no mistake
by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, is soon realized. It cures the highest of their wonderful cures of the most distressing cases and is sold on its merits
by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.
You may have a sample bottle by mail. Name of Swamp-Root, free, also pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble.
Mention this paper when writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. J. C. Kilmer, Frankfort, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

A FACT ABOUT THE "BLUES"

What is known as the "Blues" is seldom occasioned by actual existing external conditions, but in the great majority of cases by a disordered liver.

THIS IS A FACT which may be demonstrated by trying a course of

Tutt's Pills

They control and regulate the liver. They bring hope and buoyancy to the mind. They bring health and elasticity to the body.

In marked contrast to the great number of patent medicines, cure-alls and secret preparations is Walther's Peptonized Food.

This preparation claims no magic virtue, and does not presume upon the intelligence of the people by pretending to be a sovereign cure for all the ills to which the flesh is heir.

Walther's Peptonized Food comes a common sense tonic, composed of two well-known remedies—port wine and pepsin, about the efficacy of which there is no question. All Druggists sell Walther's Peptonized Food.

The farmers' experience with tobacco this year ought to learn him a lesson. Better go to raising poultry and eggs, mules and hogs, something else in the very day demand and that he can get to market any old time. Our Pellville correspondent makes some timely remarks along this line, which will be published in full next week.

We are sorry to lose Eli Gregory from this town. He had won his way into the hearts of the business interests here as well as into some other hearts of a more tender nature. He was becoming a fixture in this town's business affairs and a leading light in financial matters. He was pleasant, courteous and kind, making friends every day. Here's hoping that his lot will be pleasant and profitable fields and that he may grow and prosper beyond his fondest hopes.

Now, my friends, I advise you not to read the following list if you expect to hold on to your money, as the temptation will be very great to invest in it some of the bargains offered.

best words were correspondingly violent.

"Put off your stage manners!" he exclaimed. "You are here at my pleasure. It was no whim, my carrying you off. After you left I went to the man-ory, where I tried to forget you. But nights of revelry—why should I not confess it?—could not efface your memory." His voice unconsciously sank to unreserved candor. "Your presence filled these halls. I could no longer say, 'Why should I trouble myself about one who has no thought for me?'"

Breathing hard, he paused, gazing beyond her, as though renewing the memories of that period.

"Learning you were in the neighboring town," he continued, "I went there with no further purpose than to see you. On the journey perhaps I indulged in foolish fancies. How would you receive me? Would you be pleased, annoyed? So I tempted my fate with air castles, like the most unsophisticated lover. But you had no word of welcome; scarcely listened to me and hurried away. I could not win you as I desired. The next best way was this."

He concluded with an impassioned gesture, his gaze eagerly seeking at the first sign of lenity or favor on her part, but his confession seemed futile. Her eyes, suggestive now but coldness and obduracy. In a revulsion of feeling he forgot the distance separating the hushed from the fashionable world, the tragic scatterings from the conventions of Vanity Fair. He forgot all save that he was to him now the one ungracious, untender, overbearing other memories.

"Will not a life of devotion atone for this day, Constance?" he cried. "Do you know how far reaching are these lands? All the afternoon you drove through them, and they extend as wide in the other direction. These—my name—are years."

A shade of color swept over her brow.

"Answer me," he urged.

"Drive back and I will answer you."

"Drive back and you will laugh at me," he retorted moodily. "You would make a woman's bargain with me."

"Is yours a man's with me?" she said contemptuously.

"What more can I do?"

"Undo what you have done. Take me back!"

"Will you cut a nice figure doing that? No, you shall stay here!"

He spoke angrily. Her disdain at his proposal not only injured his pride, but awoke his animosity. On the other hand, his words demonstrated she had not improved her own position. If he meant to keep her there he could do so, and opposition made him only more obstinate, more determined to win his advantage. Had she been more polite—Juliana off the stage as well as on—she, whose artifice was glossed by artlessness.

Her lashes drooped, her attitude became less aggressive, her eyes, from beneath their dark curtains, rested on him for a moment. With this glance so effective to not susceptible to analysis. Was it the appeal that awakened the quixotic sense of honor, the high-minded aristocratic compassion, the irresistible quality of a brilliant eye so fatal to masculine calculation and positiveness? Whatever it was, it dispelled the confusion of the land baron's face, and—despite his threats, vows—he was swayed by a look.

"Forgive me," he said tenderly.

"You will drive back?"

"Yes! I will win you in your own way, fairly and honestly! I will take you back, though the whole country laughs at me. Win or lose, back we go, for—I love you!" And impulsively he threw his arm around her waist.

Simulation could not stand the test. It was no longer acting, but reality: she had set herself to a role she could not perform. Hating him for that free touch, she forcibly extricated herself with an exclamation and an expression of countenance there was no mistaking. From Mauville's face the glad light died. He regarded her once more cruelly, vindictively.

"You dropped the mask too soon," he said coldly. "I was not prepared for rehearsal, although you were perfect. You are even a better actress than I thought you, than which—mocking—'I can pay you no better compliment.'"

She looked at him with such scorn he laughed, though his eyes flashed.

"Bravo!" he exclaimed.

Pains in the Back

Are symptoms of a weak, torpid or stagnant condition of the kidneys or liver, and are a warning it is extremely hazardous to neglect, so important is a healthy action of these organs.

They are commonly attended by loss of energy, lack of courage, and sometimes by gloomy foreboding and despondency.

"I had pains in my back, could not sleep and when I got up in the morning felt worse than the night before, I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla and now I sleep and get up feeling rested and able to do my work. I attribute my cure entirely to Hood's Sarsaparilla." Mrs. J. S. PERRY, ex-H. S. Cleveland, Pikeville, Ky.

Footfall sounded without, the door burst open, and the driver of the coach, who had been driven by fear, unconsciously entered the room. The patron turned on him enraged, but the latter, without noticing the master's displeasure, exclaimed hurriedly:

"The antients are coming!"

"The actress uttered a slight cry and rushed toward the window, when she was drawn back by an irresistible force."

"Harden me," said a hard voice, from which all passing emotion had vanished. "Be kind enough to come with me."

"I will follow you, but—" Her face expressed the protest.

"This way then!"

He released her, and together they moved the stairway. For a long time a gentle footfall had not passed those various landings; not since the ladies in hoops, with powdered hair, had as quickly and desecrated the carpeted cavaliers bewigged, befrilled, bedizened. The land baron conducted his companion to a distant room upstairs, the door of which he threw open.

"Go in there," he said curtly.

She hesitated on the threshold. So remote was it from the main part of the great name the apartment had all the requirements of a prison.

"You needn't fear," he continued, smiling. "I'm not going to send you to be separated from you—yet. But we can see what is going on here."

Again she nately obeyed him, from which the room it was a commodious apartment, where an excellent view was offered of the surrounding country on three sides.

From the narrow, dark crimson ribbon, left behind by the flouting snail, a faint reflection entered the great open of the chamber and revealed Mauville waiting without, pistol in hand; Constance leaning against the curtains and the driver of the coach standing in the center of the room, looking inwardly and shaking out quickly. This last named had found an old blunderbuss somewhere, useful even unconditionally, but of questionable service now.

Meanwhile Oly-locks had not returned. Having faithfully closed and locked all the doors, he had crept out of a cellar window and voluntarily resigned as caretaker of the manor, with his burden of dangers and vociferous. With characteristic pride he had timed the period of his departure with the beginning of the end in the fortunes of the land baron.

The storm cloud, gathering under the life of Mauville's predecessor, was now ready to burst, the impending catastrophe hastened by her want of discretion and his failure to adjust difficulties amicably.

A branch of a tree against the window as Mauville scanned the surrounding garden. Then his eye fell upon an indistinct figure stealing slowly across the sward in the parkal darkness. This object was immediately followed by another and yet another. To the observer's surprise they were the head gear of Indians.

Suddenly the patron heard the note of the whippoorwill, the nocturnal woe that mourns unseen. It was succeeded by the shrill whistles of a saw-whet and the distinct mew of a catbird. A wild pigeon began to coo softly in another direction and was answered by a thrush. The land baron vaguely realized that all this unexpected melody came from the Indians, who had by this time surrounded the house and took this method of communicating with one another.

An interval of portentous silence was followed by a loud knocking at the front door, which did reverberated through the hall, echoing and re-echoing the vigorous movements. Mauville at this leaned from the window, and as he did so there arose a hooting from the sward as though Indian had broken loose. Maintaining his post, the baron called out:

"What do you want, men?"

At these words the demonstration became more turbulent, and amid the threatening hubbub voices arose, shouting too well the purpose of the gathering. Aroused to a fever of excitement by the shooting of the tomahawk, they were no longer skulking, stealthy Indians, but a riotous assemblage of anti-renters expressing their determination in continuous clatter.

"Hang the land baron!"

In the midst of this far from reassuring uproar a voice arose like a trumpet:

"We are the messengers of the Lord, made strong by his wrath!"

"You are the messengers of the devil, Little Thunder!" Mauville shouted derisively.

The crack of a rifle admonished the land baron that the jest might have cost him dear.

CHILDREN ARE SANE.

But Grownup People, Most of Them, Are More or Less Insane.

There is one disadvantage which is involved in the very nature of education—that is, that we have to assume that grownup people are representative. We have even to go the length of assuming that grownup people are sane. When we talk about encouraging health in children and discouraging morbidity, when we talk of such and such a child being abnormal or interesting or neurotic or a genius, we are all the time taking for granted that we ourselves have attained to a sane, profitable and eternal in human nature. But there is at least something that may reasonably be said upon the other side. It may at least very plausibly be maintained that it is children who are, are after age, sane and reliable and grownup people who are, are after age, more or less fantastic and disconcerting. The great majority of grownup people in any age will be in all probability slightly insane, for since no human philosophy is perfect, and since every human philosophy naturally treats itself as if it were perfect, the chances are in every generation that the majority of educated people will be ecstatically certain of something that is quite untrue. Children, on the other hand, it might be maintained, represent the actual primary and untouched human nature. Whatever agrees with that is sane; whatever disagrees with it is eccentric. Children are always children, or, to limit the matter with more precision, babies, at any rate, are always babies. But few will be paradoxical as to maintain that men are always men or women always women.—Black and White.

An Eloquent Peroration.

"And," said the rising young politician as he reached his eloquent peroration, "I predict that our candidate will, when the votes are counted, be found to have ridden to success upon a tidal wave of glory that will have swept all before it like wild fire breaking in flying spray upon the strand where the sun of victory shall blaze forth its most effulgent rays."

Close of one of the most noble, most memorable campaigns that have ever been launched upon the sea of politics to gather strength and carry all before it like the cyclone sweeping across the broad prairies from which even the orb of day has disappeared in terror.

Simplicity.

Simplicity is the crowning jewel of all virtues. Great messages, great truths, great discoveries and great events are ever simple in their elements. Simplicity makes the great nobler and lifts the obscure to places of eminence. It is the bright charm of innocent children and the radiant truth of the old and learned.—Maxwell's Talmud.

A novel new year's greeting is a card issued by Mr. George L. Garrett, Traveling Passenger Agent of the Louisville, St. Louis, and Henderson railway company. And public Speakers everywhere are very often troubled with a cough or some throat irritation which may lead to graver complications later on. A cough neglected may pave the way for the germs of consumption to enter the weakened system. There is no better preventive against this dread disease nor more certain medicine to cure a cough and at the same time to act as a sustaining tonic to build up the entire system than Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which purifies and enriches the blood. It increases the activity of the blood-making process, so that the body is abundantly supplied with the red corpuscles of health.

A prominent woman, who is very favorably known as an elocutionist, gives the following testimony:

DIVERS AFTER PEARLS.

Their Work Is Dearly, and They Do Not Live Long.

Pearl fishers do not live long. They often dive to a depth of 100 feet or more, and the strain wears them out before their lives are half over. From these depths a diver usually brings two oyster shells each "trip." It is on the mother of pearl in these that the European depends for his sure profit. Pearls are "plums" which only occasionally fall to the net. Divers work for a wage, and all the shells brought up are the property of the employer. In "Studies in Brown Humanity" Hugh Clifford describes Malay pearl fishers. They anchor on the oyster beds or as near them as possible, he says, and the diving takes place twice a day.

"All the boats are manned at morning and evening, and the boys row them out to the point selected for the day's operations. The white man in charge always goes with them in order to keep an eye upon the shells, to resuscitate exhausted divers and generally to look after his own interests."

"Presently a man lowers himself slowly over the side, takes a long, deep breath, and then, turning head down, swims into the depths, his limbs showing dimly in froglike motions until, if the water be very deep, he is completely lost to sight."

"In a few minutes he comes into view again, his face straining upward, yearning with extended neck for the air that he now needs so sorely."

"He cleaves the water in strong downward strokes; his form grows momentarily more distinct, until the fixed, tense expression of his staring face is plainly visible. Then the quiet surface of the sea splashes in a thousand drops of sun-steeped light as his head tears through it, and his body, dark downy from nose and mouth and ears. At times even the eye sockets ooze blood, the result of fearful pressure to which the diver has been subjected."

Congratulations.

Mr. John H. Cullum, Editor of the Garland, Texas, News, has written a letter of congratulations to the manufacturers of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as follows: "Sixteen years ago when our first child was a baby he was subject to croupy spells and we would be very uneasy about him. We began using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in 1887, and finding it such a reliable remedy for colds and croup, we have never been without it in the house since that time. We have five children and have given it to all of them with good results. One good feature of this remedy is that it is not disagreeable to taste and our babies really like it. Another is that it is not dangerous, and there is no risk from giving an overdose. I congratulate you upon the success of your remedy." For sale by Short & Haynes.

Moon Worship in Britain.

Lunar superstitions lingered until a late period in the British island, says a writer of the seventeenth century says: "In Yorkshire, etc., northward, some country people do worship the new moon on their bare knees, kneeling on an earthen stone. And the women of Athol, in the highlands of Scotland, do worship the new moon." Speaking of the Irish, he continues: "Whether or no they worship the moon I know not but when they first see her after the change they commonly bow the knee and say the Lord's Prayer and then the women address themselves to her with a loud voice after this manner, 'Leave us as well as thou findest.'"

Sylvester O'Halloran, the Irish historian, speaking of the corresponding customs of the Phoenicians and Irish, adds: "Their deities were the same. They both adored Bel (or Baal), the moon and the stars. The houses of Rimmon, which the Phoenicians worshipped in (like our temples of Flecha in Meuth), were sacred to the moon."

What Do People Read?

Every roadside fence is now a primer for the passerby, every tolling is a first reader to the traveler, every boarding a treatise on zoology, manufactures and social problems. Today most read a little, if only newspapers—probably 10,000,000 to 20,000,000 of the 40,000,000 who could read them if they would. A few read novels. If the most popular novel finds only 1,000,000 buyers in a country where 40,000,000 could read it if they would, who can say that our readers are more than a few? A few, possibly 250,000 to 300,000, read standard literature and scientific contributions to thought and knowledge. Surely the procession of readers grows larger every year, relatively as well as absolutely.—Outlook.

Fixing a Clock.

A resident of Florida tells this story of an old negro who came to a watchmaker with the two hands of a clock: "I want you to fix up my clock. It don't keep no correct time for me den six mums."

"Well, where is the clock?" responded the watchmaker.

"Out to my cabin."

"But I must have the clock."

"Didn't I tell yer dar's nuffin de matter wid de clock 'cep' de hands? An' here dey be. You jes want de clock so you kin tink it an' charge me a big price. Gimme back de hands."

And, saying he started off to find an honest watchmaker.

Mr. Depee-I want you to sit right down and write to Mrs. Jenks inviting her to view the parade from our house. Mrs. Depee-I thought you said the route was almost sure to be changed, so that our house will be cut out?"

Mr. Depee-It will be changed, and the parade will pass her house now.—Philadelphia Ledger.

"The nicest and pleasantest medicine I have ever used for indigestion and constipation is Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets," says Melcher M. Craig, of Middleboro, N. Y. "They work like a charm and do not 'gripe' or have any unpleasant effect." For sale by Short & Haynes.

A Needed Admonition.

On one of my trips through the south I wandered into an old dilapidated cemetery of Virginia and read many very peculiar epitaphs upon tombstones. One in particular attracted my attention, which happened to be that of a slave who had been inclined to be stout. The grave had long since been neglected, and the inscription could only be read after brushing away the vines which grew upon it. But my labor was rewarded, for there on that tombstone I read, "Aliza White weighed 300 pounds; open wide the golden gates."—Philadelphia Press.

Army Firing Positions.

Standing, kneeling, sitting and lying down are the four positions prescribed for firing by the army regulations. The lying position alone is prescribed for the 800 and the 1,000 yard ranges, while at all the other ranges up to 2,000 yards the lying and sitting positions are used. At 100 and 200 yards the sitting and standing positions are prescribed. Wherever the sitting position is prescribed the kneeling may be substituted, for the majority of persons the sitting is by far the better position of the two.

Silenced Mamas.

"Now," said the anxious mother, "you do not want to marry that reporter. Think of having a husband who never gets home until 2 or 3 in the morning."

"But," said the shrinking maiden, "aren't all husbands like that? Papa is not a reporter, and—and yet—"

But the anxious mother declined to listen.

While the Orchestra Plays.

"I do wish the woman back of me would stop kicking my chair," sighed a woman at the theater the other evening. "Ever since the orchestra began she has been keeping time with her feet, and besides all that she is fanning the back of my neck and trying to hum a tune she doesn't know. Isn't it strange how some people act when there's any music about? Now, just look at that little woman in the second row, tapping the back of one hand against her forehead. She's unconscious of it too. And there's another woman over there in the box who seems to think she is leading the orchestra with her fan. The men are just as bad too. Just look around and see the number of men who are keeping time with their heads, their feet or their feet. Then there is always some creature who makes a nuisance of himself by whistling through his teeth all the time the orchestra is playing. Even you, my dear"—this to her husband—"are keeping strict time with your programme while I'm lecturing about other people's misconduct."—New York Times.

FOUNTAIN PEN PERFECTION

The Quaker City Self-Filling Fountain Pen fills itself and thereby fills a long-felt want.

Free Press

Any reliable time-saver is eagerly welcomed by the modern business man. Probably the most forceful illustration of this condition of things in recent years was the enthusiasm with which the fountain pen was greeted. It seemed to mean the saving of so much time and annoyance for so many people that its sale was simply phenomenal.

But the fountain pen was not by any means perfect and its users soon discovered that the bother was only concentrated, instead of being dispensed with. The finest fountain pen would write indifferently well as long as there was ink in it but, when that gave out, our busy man had to stop, unscrew an ink cap, hunt around for a filler and the particular ink recommended by the manufacturers of that particular pen and so on through a long process of annoyance.

The manufacturers of the Quaker City Self-Filling Fountain Pen have overcome all this bother and produced a practical writing tool which is as easy to use as if one were simply writing with the filler needed for the old pen. There is nothing to unscrew, nothing to squirt, nothing to lose or get out of order. Its construction is simple and substantial and the operation of filling it so simple that you would hardly think of it before.

It is merely necessary to dip the pen slightly, lift up as usual and go on writing. Its capacity is no less than the ordinary fountain pen, and so on through a long process of annoyance.

We feel that we are not over-praising the Quaker City Self-Filling Fountain Pen when we say that it represents the acme of fountain pen achievement.

Good Skating on River.

The first half of last week there was good skating on the Ohio river at this point. Many skaters crossed over to the Indiana shore and the more venturesome went as far down the river as the lower bend.

Last Thursday the ice in the Ohio became rotten, owing to the rise in temperature, w. s. gorges at the various points are breaking up. Navigation, however, it is believed, cannot be entirely resumed for some time to come.
